

survivalkit

what you need to stay culturally satiated this month.

Cozy Mat dog bed, $35- 62 at Arabella and Fern.

Because puppies (and puppies at heart—like two-year-old Zen, pictured here) need a cozy place to rest, too. These dog beds are so cute you might end up coveting your canine's couch. arabellaandfern.com

Olympia Granola coffee-infused bars, $4 at Mill City Museum.

Because sometimes you need more than coffee for that mid-morning break. These yummy, all-natural bars come in flavors such as Espresso Almond Chocolate, Mocha Mint and non-coffee varieties like Lemon Chamomile. olympiagranola.com

Literary Punch Card, free at participating bookstores or the Twin Cities Book Festival (10/15).

Because reading and all related deeds should never go unrewarded. Gather 12 punches at Punch Card events and get a $15 credit at the sponsoring bookstore of your choice. You'll also be eligible to receive a mystery package filled with literary goodness. litpunch.com

Community, Thursdays at 7 p.m. on NBC.

Because when the mercury drops and Vitamin D deprivation sets in, nothing warms your spirit more than a weekly dose of out-there humor from Chevy Chase, Donald Glover and special guests like Betty White and Drew Carey. nbc.com/community

Greeting cards, $1 and up at Pear Tree Greetings.

Because when you need to send a non-cheesy holiday, wedding birthday or just-because greeting, there's no better way to do it than with a customizable card from this local stationery company. peartreegreetings.com

